

1. STUDENT CONSENT TO RECORDING

As we discussed, obtaining the written consent of each student would be terribly burdensome, and it would be unlikely to get a 100% return of consent forms. Accordingly, we have considered giving notice to students that taping of lectures may occur, and imply from no objection that consent has been granted. The notice might be placed in the Student Handbook, posted in lecture rooms and included in course syllabi. The following forms of notice would be appropriate.

Student Handbook

Dental School classes may be recorded by the School or by designated students for purposes including, but not limited to, podcasting to students enrolled in the course for review, student illness, absences associated with religious holidays, and disability accommodations. Recording devices are prohibited in the classroom except with the instructor's permission.

Recording devices are prohibited in the classroom except with the instructor's permission.

The above language is premised upon the podcasts being available only through CourseInfo or a similar password protected site. If that will not be the case, we would need to revise this language.

2. FACULTY CONSENT TO RECORDING

PERMISSION TO RECORD CLASS LECTURES

I hereby give my permission for GSDM or its designee to make recording of my class lectures or presentations. I further agree that GSDM may, for the educational purposes of GSDM only, make all or part of the recording accessible to students enrolled in the class by podcast or online on a website restricted to GSDM staff and students only.
